Simplify and Enjoy Your Holidays.

Many subscribers have written to me about how their stress level goes through the roof during the holiday season. What a pity that a season that is supposed to be about peace and reflection causes such pressure and anxiety.

Over the years loyal members of the LifeMap community have shared with me their solutions for combating what seems to be the growing trend of stressful and tiring holidays. This month we're sending LifeMap out a bit early so you can try out some of the following ideas that I've collected to help you chill out a bit so you can simplify, relax, and really enjoy your holidays. I'll keep them simple and brief.

Paths Forward:

- * Many holidays come towards the end of the year, which is often a busy time at work. Try to keep work in perspective.
- * If giving a holiday party make it potluck so you can actually enjoy it instead of ending up exhausted. Remember to invite the person who always helps clean up. Do away with the stupid gift exchange games that most people dislike. (If you've got junk you want to get rid of drop it off at The Salvation Army or Goodwill; don't foist it on friends.)
- * Reexamine your gifting. There's no need to break the bank. Gifts from the heart are the most appreciated (i.e. homemade cards, cookies, ornaments, gift certificates for babysitting, car wash, pet care, or other services). If "store-bought" is essential explore craft outlets where local artisans struggling to make a living offer unique, one of a kind treasures.
- * If there's a holiday tradition that causes you more stress than enjoyment- DROP IT! Holidays aren't enjoyable if spent in a shopping, cooking, decorating, entertaining frenzy.
- * Write yourself a note containing one thing you really want to do for yourself during the holiday season. Post it on the fridge or mirror so you'll be reminded to go out and do it.
- * Do something specific to help you reinforce the meaning of your holiday. Read a story aloud, watch a favorite movie, sing, if you have Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa or any other holiday lights turn off all other lights for a few minutes every night, take a deep breath and enjoy the gift of perspective and the luxury of a few moments of peace.
- * Like you, I sometimes let the hectic holiday frenzy get to me. Last year I tried to improve by throwing away those strings of tangled Christmas lights. This year I'm posting a mantra on my computer and in the car. It says "Family, Friends, Faith, Fun". Use mine or come up with your own but say it aloud to yourself when you feel your stress rising and your focus dropping.

Enjoy your holidays!
